JANUARY 2012

With the evenings getting longer and already over half way through January, it seems strange to look back to Mince Pie Night and New Year. In 2010 it was touch and go whether Mince Pie Night would have to be cancelled for the second year running. This time there were no weather problems and twenty of us enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

A few people went on the Museum Run on 27th December and several of us went to Barrington on New Year's Day. A tremendous age range of cars get to this gathering and it was a much better day than last year. Cars are coming and going all the time but we estimated that probably around two hundred and fifty vehicles were there. I understand that the Museum Autojumble the following day was also very busy.

You may or may not be aware that this year's Spring Bank Holiday is the first Monday in June, the day before the Diamond Jubilee Bank Holiday. As a result, the Enfield Pageant of Motoring, although still the last weekend in May, will be on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Friday will be autojumble and an auction, with the other two days for the car show and arena events.

A large house in North Mymms, which i believe is some sort of college now, opens their gardens on one day a year in aid of the Red Cross. We went there a couple of years ago, and the rose gardens and the general layout were lovely. Eric and Margot were equally impressed last summer. Someone they know is involved with the Red Cross and asked Eric if we would be able to put on a display of cars in front of the house. As yet there is not a definite date but, judging by the last couple of years, I would guess at June 17th or 24th. I'll keep you posted when Eric obtains the date.

Alan Collins is once again appearing in a show. This year it is "Kiss Me Kate". We are planning to go on Saturday 10th March, so if anyone wants tickets please give Keith Williams a ring. Keith Oswick will probably organise a meal beforehand at Prezzo.
